MARCUS MILLER

► MARCUS

A film by Patrick Savey
90 min - 2014

Beyond his autobiographical dimension, this film is the story of a young man who has forced his destiny to live his dream and become one of the greatest jazzmen. At an age where most kids focus on their A level, Marcus Miller was already a prodigy and a well known session musician. Before his 30s he was one of the main producers, having worked with some of the biggest names. His solo career started in the early 90s and 2000 made him the bass soloist that we now know.

About to turn 54, Marcus Miller is at a turning point of his career and is now starting to work with the most talented musicians of the young generation. A documentary filmed in France and in the US, featuring interviews and performances with some of the biggest names in Jazz.

This Marcus Miller portrait was filmed during the Tutu Revisited tour, in 2009. In this film, Marcus Miller focused on his relationship with Miles Davis : the whole creation process for the album "Tutu" and its recording.

BIRTH OF A DIALECT

52 min - 2008

This documentary film talks about the beginning of a band called Dialect. It sends us on a quest in search of artists that have emerged themselves from the rap scene in an attempt to form a new genre of music. In fact "Dialect" is the expression of a subtle mix of influences. The explosive fusion of Gassam's rap music (alias Gas) mixed with 6 other Jazz musicians. We could call it Jazz Hip-Hop or Funk Rap, but beyond its genre label, all that matters for this band from Lyon is the emotional language that is involved, giving their music an eternal Soul. Beyond the music, the motivation of the film is to get rid of all stereotypes conveyed by Rap music and the Hip Hop environment. The overall idea of this culture is to be peaceful and to provide a link between social classes. People who hold a positive portrayal of this music is far too rare of an occurrence, instead choosing to bring censured artists to the limelight because of their provocative or hateful lyrics rather than revealing those who have positive initiatives relating to this music genre and its culture. With the influence of Music some of the biggest changes in society were carried through. For some time now, music is what has structured the minds of new generations and in this vision of things, music has made solidarity concrete, it gathers, rebels and creates new models.
